December 2019

On behalf of the Illinois Dermatological Society (IDS) and its board of directors, I am writing to request your participation as an exhibitor at the upcoming Practice Management & Coding Workshop on Wednesday, February 12, 2020.

The exhibit fee for this meeting is $1,750, but we are offering a discounted fee of $1,500 for companies who participate in three or more meetings of IDS and/or the Chicago Dermatological Society during the current academic year. Vendor displays are situated prominently to assure the opportunity to interact with our members. All breaks, including continental breakfast, are served in the exhibit area which is separate from the educational lecture room. In compliance with CME rules, IDS notes that the program content has been developed without any influence of commercial interests.

Our Federal Tax ID is: 37-1042921.

The conference will take place at the Stephens Convention Center in Rosemont, IL, just a short distance from O'Hare International Airport and easily accessible by major highways. The meeting is approved for Category 1 Continuing Medical Education credit. The subject matter for the workshop focuses on a number of practice management topics, including coding issues, Medicare regulations, and physician licensure requirements
